ABSTRACT

This is a directory of learning resources for non-English speaking people available to Iowa libraries. Section one discusses the background and rationale for the directory and includes a list of bibliographies for multicultural resources and materials in foreign languages. Referral information concerning classes, employment programs, agencies, associations and resource persons is presented. Also included are a list of publishers of foreign language materials, significant foreign language collections in Iowa and evaluation instruments. The remaining sections are divided as: (1) English as a second language; (2) Southeast Asians; and (3) Spanish-speaking people. Each of these sections includes lists of bibliographies, referral information (agencies, associations, resource people, and special programs), significant collections of materials available in Iowa, and the names and addresses of publishers and distributers in each area of interest. INTRODUCTION

I. BACKGROUND/RATIONALE FOR THIS RESOURCE GUIDE

In March, 1979, the Iowa Governor's Conference on Libraries and Information Services adopted the following resolution:

> Resolved, that this Conference recognizes the need for access to contemporary literature for non-English speaking persons, and that a task force be appointed by the State Library Commission to investigate and make recommendations.

In October, 1979, the members of the Committee on Service to the Non-User of the Iowa Library Association met to choose a topic of study for the coming year. They were aware of the Governor's Conference resolution and knew that several current trends were bringing larger numbers of non-English speaking people to Iowa. They believed that financially-pressed Iowa libraries might be slow to respond to the specialized needs of these newcomers for learning materials, so the Committee decided to see how it could help by undertaking a study of "library services to Native Americans, Spanish-surnamed and Southeast Asian immigrants".

The study involved a survey (in May, 1980) of 248 Iowa public, regional and college libraries, area education agencies (AEA'S), international student advisors and instructors of English as a second language (ESL) to find out what materials and services they offered for non-English speaking people. Committee members also interviewed specialized resource persons at key agencies.

The survey returns (only 31% responded) and the interviews showed that many Iowa librarians are not aware of any non-English speaking people in their communities and, even if they are, do not attempt to provide materials for them. (Only 26 respondents provide materials other than dictionaries.) Outside the community colleges and school agencies (who are carrying the prime responsibility for offering ESL classes to the public), programs and resources in Iowa communities are sparse. No respondents mentioned Native Americans present in their communities or any programs or materials for them, so for lack of time to research this project, we omitted it from further study at this time. It should be pursued.

Survey respondents provided the committee with a wealth of information about learning materials useful with non-English speaking students; it will be deposited with the State Library Commission of Iowa for use by Iowa Librarians through the interlibrary loan system. This resource guide is an attempt to summarize the most useful information and make it readily available to Iowa librarians. Its contents include information on purchasing sources, lists of contact/resource people and locations of collections of materials in other languages and in ESL which may be helpful in building collections and know-how to serve the non-English speaking groups identified as most numerous in our survey.

II. TRENDS/STATISTICS

By far the largest ethnic/language groups in the survey respondents' communities (of which they were aware) were Spanish-speakers and Southeast Asians of various languages. (Many Southeast Asians also speak French.)

As of May, 1980, Iowa's refugee resettlement program (a model for the nation) had brought about 5,600 Southeast Asian refugees into the state. Spanish-speaking migrant agricultural workers had come to Iowa in large numbers in the 1960's and 1970's, and, by the late 70's, were settling down and spreading out to become permanent residents. At this writing Iowa has not felt the effects of the current influx of Cuban refugees, but resettlement will no doubt eventually affect this state,too.[1]

While these constitute the most noticeable language groups, figures from the 1970 U.S. Census (soon to be updated with publication of data gathered in 1980) demonstrate the variety of language groups present in the Iowa population. (1.4 % of Iowa's 1970 population was foreign-born, less than 1% were Spanish-speakers, and 1% listed a mother tongue other than English.) About 3/4 of the non-English speakers in 1970 lived in urban areas.

- The Iowa Spanish-Speaking People's Commission estimates that there are 35,000 Hispanics in Iowa not counting migrant workers (21% increase in the last four years. Source: DES MOINES REGISTER, August 27, 1980, p. 7A.

- A 1979 Iowa Department of Public Instruction census showed 2,500 students with limited English proficience attending school in 133 of Iowa's 443 districts. Source: DES MOINES REGISTER, Sept. 11, 1980.

The new Southeast Asian refugees are present in all but 25 of Iowa's counties. Current population trends show that the numbers of Spanish-speakers will continue to increase as a sub-population in the United States. (See Sections II and III for reference on these two groups.)

The ILA Non-User Committee strongly recommends that Iowa librarians turn to the 1980 Census reports when they become available next year as a way of verifying which ethnic/language groups might be present in their communities. If these reports are not available in your community, request them through the interlibrary loan system or from any of the Iowa Census Data Center participant libraries.

Other statistics are available from a survey conducted by the Iowa Department of Instruction (DPI) in 1978.[1] 2,157 students in Iowa schools were identified as coming from homes using a language other than English (648 Spanish; 346 Thai Dam; 25 Vietnamese; 174 American Indian (Mesquakie); 163 Lao; 15 German; 9 French; and 465 other languages.) (A detailed list of the numbers and languages in each school district is included in the report.) The DPI is assisting local school districts to develop bilingual-bicultural programs to insure that these students are not penalized in their educational development while becoming more proficient in English.

It is clear that the Iowa libraries no longer think of their communities as homogeneously English-speaking. Iowa's formal education community is attempting to meet in-school needs with varying degrees of success, and educators often express the wish that reinforcing, enriching and recreational materials were available at public libraries. Those who are learning to read, understand and speak English need access to materials in their own languages. Newly-arrived Americans are often in income groups which can least afford to purchase their own learning materials. Both non-English speakers and native English-speakers need access to materials expressing the multi-cultural heritage of this country. Though multicultural materials are not the main emphasis of this resource guide, we have included some resources which will help libraries build collections.

III. DEFINITIONS

Adult Basic Education (ABE): Learning programs in subjects such as math, English grammer and social studies for the adult functioning below the 12th grade level of proficiency in his/her native language.

Beginning Reader: Person who, at any age, is just starting to learn to read in his/her native language. Some materials useful for these people can be used for persons beginning to read English as a second language, but it is a different process because beginning readers already understand the meaning of words in their native, spoken language.

Bilingual Education: An educational program designed to allow students to continue learning academic concepts in their home language while they learn a second language. The goal is to give students with little or no proficiency in English a chance to achieve academically to the best of their ability.

English as a Foreign Language (EFL): English learned in a non-English speaking society; the stay in the English-speaking country is expected to be temporary.

English as a Second Language (ESL): English which is studied and learned while functioning in an English-speaking society by persons who already know how to read in their native language; the stay in the English-speaking country is expected to be permanent.

Ethnic: Designating any of the basic groups of a heterogeneous population distinguished by common customs, characterics, language or history.

Multi-cultural: Characterized by the presence of ideas, customs, skills, arts of multiple societal origins.

V. REFERRAL INFORMATION

A. Classes for non-English speaking persons

1) Community colleges (see list on p.24)

The most likely place to turn for the following types of classes for the adult, out-of-school public. Usually there is a modest enrollment fee. Classes may be offered at outreach locations in local communities. Check with the college nearest you for a list of offerings.

a) Adult Basic Education Classes
Classes in reading, math, and other skills needed for daily "coping."

b) English as a second language classes.

c) High school completion classes and the GED (General Educational Development) test.

d) Citizenship classes.

e) One-to-one tutoring for adult beginning readers and/or people learning English as a second language. Some community colleges offer training for tutors and coordinate the volunteer tutor programs.

2) Local school districts

Some in larger cities are developing ESL programs and building collections of easy readers for recreational reading. Some have hired specialized teachers to work with non-English speaking students, but all are short of the necessary financial resources.

3) Iowa State University (Ames), University of Iowa (Iowa City), and University of Northern Iowa (Cedar Falls), and several of the 4-year colleges offer ESL classes to their own enrolled foreign students.

B. Employment Programs

Job Service of Iowa
150 Des Moines St.
Des Moires, IA 50316 (515) 281-8564
(And in 77 other Iowa cities)

Provides job research assistance to all refugees as part of the Iowa

Refugee Service Center's services. Acts as a free employment service for the general public. Each office has a frequently-updated microfiche list describing current job openings in the region it serves. (For information on the Iowa Refugee Service Center see p. 37)

C. Agencies

1) Area Education Agencies (AEA'S)

These 16 regional agencies offer back-up resource services for local school districts such as media resources, special education and professional materials and in-service training. In this capacity, they almost all develop bibliographies, support materials, demonstration and preview collections, files of publishers' catalogs, etc., for use of local school personnel teaching ESL. Some maintain lists of tutors. They are presently developing a plan and collecting statistics on non-English speakers. (see list in Section II).

2) Des Moines Area Council for International Understanding
2838½ University Ave.
Des Moines, IA 50322 (515) 271-2851
Language bank, interpreter services, foreign student assistance, ethnic group contacts.

3) International Resource Center, Office of International Education
E.O. Building
Iowa State University
Ames, IA 50011 (515) 271-1120
Lends culture kits from over 140 countries; holds "International Friendship Fairs"; provides resource persons for school classes throughout Iowa.

4) Iowa Dept. of Public Instruction, Urban Education Section.
Grimes Building
Des Moines, Iowa 50319 (515) 281-3152

DPI offers technical assistance to school districts and communities. It serves elementary and secondary schools in 130 districts by developing programs and workshops for teachers who work with non-English speaking students. Consultants develop testing instruments and make lists of recommended materials. Emphasis on ESL and Transitional Bilingual Education. Resource library has ESL materials and bibliographies from the national clearinghouses. They have no recreational reading materials in other languages.

5) Midwest National Origin Desegregation Assistance Center
University of Wisconsin
P.O. Box 413
Milwaukee, WI 53201 Dr. Tran Trong Hai

Sponsors workshops to inform people of their educational rights; helps people file complaints when they feel their educational needs are not being met.

6) National Clearinghouse for Bilingual Education
1300 Wilson Blvd., Suite 132-11

MANY LANGUAGES: All three state university libraries plus Drake University are likely sources to try for interlibrary loans.

VIII. EVALUATION INSTRUMENTS

A very useful tool for librarians who select and catalog books for beginning readers is a way to estimate the reading level of a book. This information can then be included on the catalog card as well as in an added subject heading to aid tutors and patrons in finding materials at appropriate reading levels.

The reading level is usually expressed in terms of the "grade level", meaning the level of difficulty which can usually be mastered by children enrolled in a certain grade in school. While direct transfer of "grade level" to adult beginning readers is difficult without testing, it is nevertheless a useful concept to include with cataloging information wherever possible. We include some references here and reprint the Fry Readability Graph for your use.

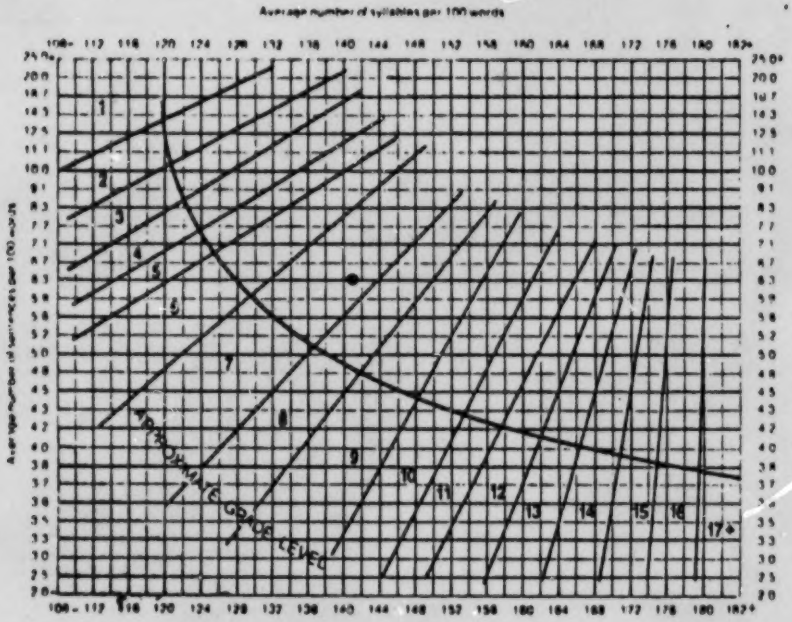
by Edward Fry, Rutgers University Reading Center, New Brunswick, N.J. 08904



Expanded Directions for Working Readability Graph

1. Randomly select three (3) sample passages and count out exactly 100 words each, beginning with the beginning of a sentence. Do count proper nouns, initializations, and numerals.
2. Count the number of sentences in the hundred words, estimating length of the fraction of the last sentence to the nearest one-tenth.
3. Count the total number of syllables in the 100-word passage. If you don't have a hand counter available, an easy way is to simply put a mark above every syllable over one in each word, then when you get to the end of the passage, count the number of marks and add 100. Small calculators can also be used as counters by pushing numeral 1, then push the + sign for each word or syllable when counting.
4. Enter graph with average sentence length and average number of syllables; plot dot where the two lines intersect. Area where dot is plotted will give you the approximate grade level.
5. If a great deal of variability is found in syllable count or sentence count, putting more samples into the average is desirable.
6. A word is defined as a group of symbols with a space on either side; thus, Joe, IRA, 1945, and & are each one word.
7. A syllable is defined as a phonetic syllable. Generally, there are as many syllables as vowel sounds. For example, stopped is one syllable and wanted is two syllables. When counting syllables for numerals and initializations, count one syllable for each symbol. For example, 1945 is four syllables, IRA is three syllables, and & is one syllable.

Note: This "extended graph" does not outmode or render the earlier (1968) version inoperative or inaccurate; it is an extension. (REPRODUCTION PERMITTED—NO COPYRIGHT)

IX. MATERIALS

Selected recommendations for materials in ESL, Spanish and Southeast Asian languages are included in Sections II, III, IV.

The survey respondents suggested some general principals you may wish to keep in mind when selecting materials for use by non-English speaking people in libraries.

1) First priority in learning English is a survival vocabulary. Therefore easy reading materials on jobs, driver's license exams, grocery shopping, banking and money management would be useful. Several of the ESL series recommended in Section II emphasize these subjects.

2) Also important are materials to help in orientation to community, job or classroom.
Newspapers, maps of all kinds, telephone books, services directories, educational opportunities, consumer information, citizenship information.

3) Materials which use vocabulary words in context are more useful than simple naming materials.

4) The common sequence for acquiring language skills is:

   a) listening

   b) speaking

   c) reading and writing

   Therefore, audio-visual materials and playback equipment to lend or make available for use in the library are of prime importance.

5) Non-English speaking people need recreational materials in their own languages as well as materials to help learn English.

The following list represents a "core" collection which would be useful for persons beginning to learn English and which could be acquired as a "starter" by any type or size of library. For libraries wishing to build larger collections, there are extensive bibliographic aids listed in Sections II, III, IV.

English as a Second Language

I. INTRODUCTION

For many years, the educational systems in the United States were reluctant to assume special responsibilities for teaching people to speak English. However, over the last few years, a new field of education has opened up--ESL (English as a Second Language) or ESOL (English for Speakers of Other Languages). ESL is primarily English which is studied and learned in an English-speaking culture. The ESL student lives, works and functions in an English-dominant society.

The following abbreviations will be used throughout this section:
ABE: Adult Basic Education
ESL: English as a second language
TEFL: Teaching English as a foreign language
TESL: Teaching English as a second language

For current information in the field:

TESOL QUARTERLY (Teachers of English to Speakers of Other Languages)
Published quarterly: March, June, Sept., Dec.
Membership dues for TESOL ($20.00) includes journal.
Articles and book reviews.
(NOTE: TESOL also publishes many bibliographies in thid area)

VI. MATERIALS

ESL course texts and programs are too numerous and cover too wide of a range of ages and levels to annotate here. Most series now available are listed in the Publisher's section. Several good bibliographies are listed in the Bibliography section. Mentioned most often were:

ENGLISH FOR TODAY (McGraw-Hill)
NEW HORIZONS IN ENGLISH (Addison-Wesley)
ORIENTATION IN AMERICAN ENGLISH (Institute for Modern Languages)

Peg Anderson of the Univ. of Iowa noted that the following four series are good:

ADVANCED ENGLISH VOCABULARY (Newbury House)

SOUTHEAST ASIANS

I. DEFINITION AND TRENDS

A. Indochina is a penninsula in Southeast Asia that includes the following countries: Burma, Thailand, Laos, Cambodia, and Vietnam. Refugee immigration to the United States has been primarily from the countries of Vietnam, Laos, and Cambodia. Each month, approximately 8-10,000 refugees enter the U.S. As of May, 1980, Iowa had a population of roughly 5,600 Indochinese refugees, settled in 75 different counties (See map on next page).

1. The Vietnamese are the largest group of refugees in Iowa. In May 1980 their population was estimated at 2,031. The majority settled in the counties of Polk, Story, Linn and Johnson: however, they are represented in over half the counties in Iowa. The Vietnamese language is spoken throughout Vietnam, although the accent varies between the northern and the southern parts of the country. The language is written in Roman script. Many Vietnamese read and speak Chinese, English, or French.

2. The country of Laos has three separate ethnic groups that have resettled in the U.S. The Hmong are from the mountainous regions; 817 have settled in Iowa. The Lowland Lao, who live in the major metropolitan center, number 661 in Iowa. There are 1,959 Tai Dam Iowa. Each of these groups have their own language (Hmong, Lao, and Tai) with various dialects of each. The Tai Dam language is similar to the Thai language spoken in Thailand.

3. In Cambodia the Khmers (or Cambodian people) inhabit the interior plain. The international community has not yet recognized the Khmers as a refugee group, so few enter the U.S. Currently there are about 125 Khmers in Iowa.

B. Resettlement

Iowa refugees are being resettled primarily by three agencies. The Iowa Refugee Service Center has settled qpproximtely 2,900 people: the United States Catholic Conference 1,400; and the Lutheran Immigration and Refugee Service 1,300 (as of May 1980).

Several trends regarding the refugee population can be identified. There is a relationship between having no sponsor and being on welfare. The employment rate and the amount of earnings increase as proficiency in understanding English increases. Generally, refugees have a lower unemployment rate than the U.S. work force as a whole, and much higher percentage of refugees work 40 or more hours per week than U.S. workers.

The obvious conclusion is that sponsors have a positive effect on the labor force participation of refugees, and that learning the English language is likewise important.

What is too often not considered is that in addition to ESL materials, refugees have a strong need for recreational materials in their own language, pertaining to their own culture. Also, creativity will suggest many resources that public libraries already have that are suitable for refugees. This guide is a starting point; let your imagination increase its usefulness.

II. BIBLIOGRAPHY OF BIBLIOGRAPHIES

The large majority of material for Indochinese refugees is available through various clearinghouses. Bibliographies and clearinghouses are listed here.

American Library Association. Booklist, Chicago: ALA, Bi-weekly. Sections appear in Booklist regularly on recommended library materials for Chinese and Vietnamese adults and children. Dealers' addresses are also provided.

Indochinese Materials Center. U.S. Office of Education, 601 East 12th St., Kansas City, MO 64106.
Materials in Chinese, Lao, Vietnamese, and Cambodian from various sources are listed in the bibliography. Textbooks, curriculum materials, resettlement information concerning Asians, and novels are included. The distributors, publisher, and sources are listed; intended audience is noted.

Information Center on Children's Cultures. U.S. Committee for UNICEF, 331 E. 38th St., New York, NY 10016.
"Vietnam in Children's Books, a six-page annotated list of 50 books, pamphlets, picture sets, films, filmstrips, and slides in English that relate to Vietnamese life... Free upon receipt of stamped, self-addressed envelope." (Booklist, May 1, '76).

National Assessment and Dissemination Center. Lesley College and Fall River Public Schools, 29 Everett St., Cambridge, MA 02138.
Chinese and Vietnamese materials.

National Clearinghouse for Bilingual Information. 1300 Wilson Blvd., B2-11, Rosslyn VA 22209. (800) 424-3750.

This Clearinghouse is the single, most useful source for acquiring materials for non-english speakers. Free Information Packets have been developed for Koreans, Laotians, and Vietnamese. The packets contain: 1) xeroxes of the title page and table of contents of all identified relevant materials, 2)an ERIC bibliography (annotated) 3) a list of resource people and agencies, and 4) a list of publishers. These are invaluable resources, and more complete than any others we have identified for the Indochinese.

National Indochinese Clearinghouse. Center for Applied Linguistics. 1611 North Kent St., Arlington, VA 22209, 1-800-424-3750. Information is available on cultural backgrounds, language differences, and cross-cultural differences. ESL and educational materials for Indochinese students have been identified, and are listed in the numerous bibliographies of the "Indochinese Refugee Education Guides" series: Adult Information Series; Bilingual/Bicultural Education Series; Education Administrator Series; Elementary Education Series; General Information Series; Intermediate/Secondary Education Series; Preschool Education. Many of These guides and bibliographies may be ordered through ERIC (Educational Resources Information Center), on micofiche.

National Indochinese Clearinghouse. Center for Applied Linguistics. Recreational Reading in Vietnamese. Indochinese Refugee Education Guides, Adult Education Series, No. 5. Arlington, VA: Center for Applied Linguistics, 1976.
"This is a guide to recreational reading in Vietnamese. Instructions are given for interlibrary loans involving libraries throughout the U.S. The bibiography is organized unger the following categories: (1) general interest, (2) history, (3) culture, (4) poetry, (5) short stories, (6) novels. Following each annotation, a notation is given to indicate the availability of the book. A few miscellaneous publications available through a French publisher are also cited," (ERIC abstract).

Pragmatics International, 4 Hundred Hill St., Jackson, Michigan 49202, Jim Chamberlain.
Mr. Chamberlain is a linguist who was in Laos for seven years. He bought every book he could while there, and filmed manuscripts. He has no extra books in stock in his "library", but will photocopy and bind at cost (or order) any of his 600 titles. Most of the titles are in Lao, some are Vietnamese, Tai Dam, or Mein (Yao). He will send catalogs of his books on request.

III. REFERRAL INFORMATION

A. Agencies and Services

1. Classes
   All the area Community Colleges offer ESL classes to adults, as well as arranging volunteer tutors. Some Colleges, Universities, Primary and Secondary Schools also offer courses.

2. Other Services
   Consider any agency that offers services: many of them will have brochures, information, or services oriented toward refugees. For example, Job Service of Iowa has job information brochures in Vietnamese, as well as special training programs for refugees.

   American Field Service, Clarinda, IA 51632. Dr. Bill Kuehn.

   Association for the Positive Promotion of Lao Ethnics (A.P.P.L.E., Inc.), P.O. Box 1914, Des Moines, IA 50306. Somsak Saythongphet. Language materials are available, as well as activities to promote the Lao/American cultures. Informal counselling is provided.

   Association of Hmong (AHM), Leng Vang, 415 Marshall Ave., #L, St. Paul, MN 55102, (612) 222-6421 or Tou-Fu Vang, Room 210, 720 Washington Avenue, S.E., Minneapolis, MN 55414, (612) 376-1878. The objectives of the Association are: 1) To encourage mutual assistance among the Hmong when a need should arise, 2) To establish communication networks for all the Hmong, 3) To advise Americans on the culture of the Hmong, 4) To advise Hmong on different facets of American culture and history, and 5) To promote education of the Hmong by developing special elementary education materials for them.

   Catholic Council for Social Concern, Resettlement Office, 700 3rd St., Des Moines, IA 50309 (515) 243-4259.

   Harlan Task Force for Refugees, Nina Allen, Harlan, IA 51537.

   Indochinese Refugee Project, Muscatine Community College, 152 Colorado St., Muscatine, IA 52761.

   International Club, Duplex MHI, Clarinda, IA 51632, Rosie Shah.

   Iowa Refugee Service Center, 150 Des Moines St., Des Moines, IA 50316 (515) 281-4334. Toll-free number: 1-800-515-362-2780. The Center provides translators (Tai Dam, Hmong, Lowland Lao, and Vietnamese), job placement and social service assistance, location and relocation of refugees, a speaker's bureau, and information services. Assistance is provided to refugees or sponsors anywhere in the state, regardless of the sponsoring agency they may be affiliated with.

Information brochures and pamphlets have been prepared and collected extensively by the Center; the titles are available in various Indochinese languages.

Iowa State Agencies

Many State agencies provide services or assistance to the Indochinese; publications may be available in the appropriate languages. Contact, for example; Department of Transportation; Department of Public Instruction; Job Service of Iowa; State Library of Iowa.

Lutheran Council in the U.S. Department of Immigration and Refugee Service, Division of Missions Ministry, Lutheran Center, 360 Park Ave., New York, NY 10010, (800) 223-7656

Marengo Refugee Resettlement Group, Marengo, IA 52301

Office of International Educational Services (OIES), Iowa State University, E.O. Building, Ames, IA 50011. John Greisberger, (515) 294-1120

Southeast Asian Refugee Coordination Services, 701 Iowa Ave., Decorah, IA 52101, (319) 382-3139, Kao Vang, Director.
The agency provides direction and assistance to residents in the five counties of Northeast Iowa. Services include interpretation, translation, accompaniement on visits to the doctor or school, aid in resettlement, and information. Services are provided to sponsoring agencies, groups or individuals.

United States Catholic Conference, Resettlement Office, 1347 Massachusetts Ave., N.W., Washington, D.C. 20005, (202) 659-6647.

United States Government Agencies

Various government agencies have produced or provide brochures and pamphlets in Indochinese languages. Sample agencies to contact include: Department of Health, Education, and Welfare, Social Security Administration, Office of Family Assistance; Interagency Task Force for Indochina Refugees.
Or check the Monthly Catalog of U.S. Government Publications.

Urban Education Section, State of Iowa, Department of Public Instruction, Grimes Bldg., Des Moines, IA 50319, (515) 281-3152.

WHO AM Radio, Dial 1040
A weekly Indochinese program is broadcast on Sunday between 8:30 and 9:00 p.m. The show is half in Vietnamese and half in Tai Dam, and contains music, news and information. The program can be picked up in most of Iowa, and throughout 45 other states.

Washington Opportunity Center, 1159 White St., Dubuque, IA 52001, English for Vietnamese.

Washington Refugee Task Force Information Line, (800) 424-0212

B. Resource People

Typically, resource people will be affiliated with one of the agencies listed in the preceeding section. Most institutions involved with refugee groups will have specialists in different areas, or they will at least be able to refer you to someone. Once you start asking, its amazing what and who people know. Try contacting: 1) refugee resettlement agencies, 2) universities, colleges, and community colleges, 3) all types of libraries (major resource libraries, state library, public libraries, regional library system), 4) state and government agencies that provide services to refugees, and 5) social and volunteer groups.

1. Tutors

An extensive list of volunteer tutors is maintained by Kirkwood Community College (6301 Kirkwood Blvd. S.W., Cedar Rapids, IA 52406, (319) 398-5553). Other community colleges may maintain such lists. Or, contact your local public library or school system.

2. Translators

The Iowa Refugee Service Center maintains a list of the languages for which their staff provide translating. Contact people and organizations in the community which are likely to be aware of the languages spoken by local people, for example: Schools or public libraries, The State Library, etc.

V. SIGNIFICANT COLLECTIONS IN IOWA

Following is a list of several agencies and organizations that have useful resource collections. Such collections are likely to reside in college, university, or community colleges, the larger public libraries, and in agencies that provide services to refugees.

Iowa Department of Public Instruction
Urban Education Section
Grimes Building
Des Moines, IA 50319
(515) 281-3152

D.P.I. offers technical assistance to school districts and communties. It serves elementary andsecondary schoolsin130 districts, by developing programs and workshops for teachers who work with non-English speaking students. Consultants develop testing instruments, and make lists of recommended materials available. Most of the emphasis is on English as a Second Language (ESL), and Transitional Bilingual Education.

The D.P.I. Resource Library has ESL materials, and bibliographies from the national clearinghouses. They have no recreational reading materials in other languages.

Heartland Area Education Agency,
Area XI,
1932 SW 3rd St.
Ankeny, IA 50021
(515) 964-2550
Betty Atwood or Richard Murphy

Services provided to the schools in the area (grades K-12) include: in-service education, information on testing, materials consulting, and ESL and cultural training. Heartland gathers detailed statistics on the language abilities and educational background of non-English speaking students of the area. Some workshops are offered in cooperation with the Community College. Heartland has produced video tapes ("ESL Programs", and "Lao vs. American Culture"), 1/2" and 3/4" size, which may be borrowed and reproduced by a library, and played over Cable TV if desired. Heartland will reproduced the tapes at cost. Some of the materials prepared by Heartland are available for purchase through A.P.P.L.E. (Association for the Positive Promotion of Lao Ethnics - see entry); those materials that are not used to support A.P.P.L.E. can be sent to libraries free.

Materials: 1) A.P.P.L.E. Blossoms: A brochure on A.P.P.L.E.'s publications with order form, 2) A guide to Teaching the Lao: edited by Richard Murphy, 3) English Lao Student Handbook: with audio tapes, by Richard Murphy, 4)ESL Services (bibliography), 5) Intergrating Limited English-speaking students into the regular classroom: by Diane Holbrook, 6) Limited English Speaking Student Survey Form, 7) Miscellany on Teaching English as a Second Language, and 8) Sampling of Available ESL Texts.

Twelve books are available pertaining to or in the Vietnamese language: there are a few books in Chinese, Indochinese languages, and Japanese. Iowa City Public Library has a large collection of books in French (a language read by many Indochinese). Assorted magazines in Vietnamese, THE IOWA ORIENTING EXPRESS.

Mid-America Center For Bilingual
Materials Development
University of Iowa
N310 OH
Oakdale, IA 52319
(319) 353-5400
Felix Chu

The Mid-America Center (MAC) is part of the Bilingual Network of Centers funded under ESEA, Title VII. The basic task of the Center is to develop, pilot, revise and seek to have published curriculum materials for students whose primary language is Spanish, Vietnamese, Lao, Thai, or Cambodian.

Felix Chu is the librarian at the Center, and maintains a library of over 600 titles on bilingual education and related topics. All the holdings are entered in computer files which can be searched on-line. Mr. Chu will be glad to answer questions from librarians and refer them to resources they can use in the above languages. The library is unable to loan materials.

Public Library of Des Moines
100 Locust St.
Des Moines, IA 50308
(515) 283-4152
Lorna Truck & Ruth Stokesberry

SPANISH SPEAKING

I. TRENDS/STATISTICS

Leaders of the Spanish-speaking community in Iowa agree that the Hispanic population is increasing and is here to stay.[1] According to a TIME magazine population map, Iowa has between 20,000 and 100,000 people of Spanish origin.[2] On the national scene, according to a 1978 census estimate, there are 12,000,000 Hispanic-Americans, plus 7.4 "undocumented" Hispanic, bringing the total to over 19,000,000.[3] On a state level, the Hispanic population will continue to increase with the influx of Cuban and Central American refugees and Mexican natives.[4]

To bridge the gap to this growing minority cultural and language group, it is essential that Iowans become informed about the Spanish language and culture. A presidential commission stated in November, 1979, that our lack of cultural insight, education and foreign language ability contributes to our declining position in the world, to foreign policy failures and to our misunderstanding of international issues and events. This ignorance threatens our nations security and our relations with Hispanic-Americans.

On local and state levels, the lack of Spanish language materials for the Hispanic groups, and lack of bilingual and beginning Spanish materials and classes for Anglos, threaten cooperation between these groups. In Muscatine, for instance, where a large Hispanic population reside, community and Hispanic leaders are concerned about employment, adequate housing, proper 3 Ibid, page 48.

4 In the "Survey of Limited and Non-English Speaking Students in Iowa", made by the Department of Public Instruction, May 1978, numerous Spanish speaking students were found in the following Iowa community school systems: Ames, Des Moines, Iowa City, Mason City, Muscatine, Shenandoah, Sioux City, Waterloo, and West Liberty.

education, community prejudices, and respect from law officials.
In West Liberty and the Quad Cities, leaders of the Spanish-speaking community are also concerned about the growing enmity between the Hispanics and Anglos.[1]

Two of the resolutions that were considered at the recent White House Conference on Liberties and Information Services stated:

1) ...whereas the Spanish-speaking have not been traditional users of libraries, therefore, be it resolved that all libraries serving the Spanish-speaking make an all-out effort to bring in the Spanish-speaking patron by providing programs and services such as information and referral, outreach, and public relations campaigns, to create an awareness among the Spanish-speaking of what libraries have to offer.

2) Whereas the Spanish-speaking population is expected to be the largest minority in the U.S. by the 1980's; and whereas the educational and literacy levels of the Spanish-speaking are among the lowest; and whereas most libraries serving the Spanish-speaking have inadequate bilingual-bicultural collections, be it resolved that this lack of materials be acknowledged by library communities serving the Spanish-speaking, and that various levels of government provide funding and other incentives to insure adequate bilingual-bicultural materials; and that programs which acquire and disseminate information on materials relevant to the Spanish-speaking continue to be funded.[2]
